

pop LIFE

CELEBRITY AND ENTERTAINMENT NEWS
EVERY TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY & FRIDAY

GOT PLANS?

Weekend entertainment | Brought to you by Currents

Around Town

A colorful journey: Walk with metal sculptor and East Carolina University professor Carl Billingsley as he leads tours of his work, which is on display in downtown Wilmington as part of the Pedestrian Art project. Tours meet at 10 a.m. and noon on Saturday at Front and Market streets. Free.

Rock and roll weekend: On Friday night, DJ Sergio Bastida of Spain spins danceable garage rock nuggets at Odessa, 23 N. Front St. On Saturday, Matador Records' Dead Meadow (stoner rock) plays at the Soapbox, 255 N. Front St., with locals Thunderlip and White Tiger & the Bed of Roses. Also at the Soapbox (upstairs) on Saturday, N.C. punk legends Antiseen play with local legends Rural Swine while DJ Sergio rocks out in the basement. Across town at Lucky's, 2505 S. College Road, hardcore act This Is Hell (Trustkill Records) plays with several other bands, also on Saturday.

An embarrassment of theater: There are five very different plays to choose from this weekend. Of the three I've seen, I might have to recommend Guerilla Theatre's production of Neil LaBute's The Shape of Things (★★★ out of four), if only because it's such a deep, well-written piece. Details: 8 p.m. today-Sunday at the Brown Coat Pub and Theatre, 111 Grace St. $15. 233-9914.

